Priority certificates

During the show exhibitors can apply for a priority certificate for registered designs, utility models and trademarks for their products displayed at the event. The exhibitor then has the opportunity to apply for certain intellectual property rights within 6 months after the show. The issue date of the priority certificate will be accepted as the application date by the German patent and trademark office, thus ensuring a time lead over counterfeiters.

Please note that in Germany, priority certificates do not apply to patent applications. The Deutsche Messe has assigned the German patent solicitor's association for issuance of priority certificates.

Waste disposal and stand cleaning

The obligation to dispose of waste lies with the exhibitor or the stand construction company commissioned by him. This applies both to waste generated during set-up and dismantling and to waste generated during the event. Waste must be separated into recyclable materials and residual waste. If the exhibitor does not intend to dispose of this waste himself, he can only commission Deutsche Messe, which in turn uses an approved disposal company, to do so.
